Whisbi has been shortening sales cycles for large enterprises for ten years, by delivering conversational solutions that engage customers in the exact moment a sales decision occurs. Whisbi's solutions blend voice, messaging and video communication, with AI and conversational expertise in specific industry verticals. What this means is that companies can quickly build sustainable sales flows around complex organizations and business rules. Global enterprises such as AT&T, Vodafone, Toyota, Hyundai and Sky trust Whisbi to coordinate their assisted and unassisted sales. Whisbi is always the channel with the highest close rate. The Whisbi Engineering team is made of talented and experienced developers and is responsible for the development of the Whisbi Platform. We are working closely with the Product team in a Scrum process, iterating quickly and constantly to improve our product and create new solutions for our Clients. We are organized in the Squads/Chapters model, being each Squad an independent and cross-functional team.
